

Table of Contents

- p.7 Introduction
- p.8 Learn to speak, read and write Chinese ... Simultaneously, by learning to type in Chinese!
- p.9 Tone The basics to know about tone before you start
- p.10 Pronunciation and Warm-up Drills Every possible phonetic combination & warm up exercises
- p.12 Tongue Twisters A fun way to practice getting your mouth around some of the trickier sounds
- p.14 Photocopiables Study templates you can photocopy onto transparency sheets to use with the 45 dialogues to accelerate your listening, reading, and writing ability. The VPC study templates are also available on our website, where you can download them and then print them out on transparency sheets – they beat using a piece of scrap paper!

page	Chapters	Learn...
p.20	Ch.1 – At the Breakfast Stand	How to order breakfast, breakfast foods and beverages at your local breakfast stand
p.26	Ch. 2 – Where are you from?	To say where you are from, how to compliment Taiwan, many country names and all the continents p.34	Ch.3 – So how much money do you make?	To talk about your salary, or to avoid doing so! Numbers 1-10, 10, 20...100, 100, 200...1000 and various number combinations p.42	Ch. 4 – I'm really interested in music!	To chat about work, different occupations, plus hobbies and interests and how to talk about them
p.50	Ch.5 – It's been a busy week!	To talk about getting settled in Taiwan and time words (days, months, and years) for the past, present, and future
p.52	Ch. 6 – Traveling around the island	To talk about traveling around the island; to use shénme 什麼 (what) + dōu 都 (all) + verb; to talk about going from A to B to C p.54	Ch. 7 – Let's go out for dinner	To express an opinion about different types of cuisine and how to describe flavors and seasoning preferences
p.56	Ch.8 – Have you ever been to Mexico?	How to use verb + guò 過 = I've eaten/drank /been to, plus sentences using dàodi 道地 (authentic) p.58	Ch.9 – Your Chinese is so great!	To talk about your Chinese ability and to compare people, places, & things using bǐ 比 (than) + adjective p.60	Ch.10 – At the train station	How to buy train tickets, times (1-12 o'clock) and how to make a date for a specific time
p.62	Ch.11 – Shopping for fruit in the market	How to bargain at the market, how to ask for different fruits, and classifiers for fruit ( ge 個, li 粒, bāo 包...)
p.64	Ch.12 – Shopping for clothes	How to shop for an item of clothing; to ask about size, say something is too big or too small; to learn color names and common items of clothing
p.66	Ch.13 – Want to do a language exchange?	Dates and times; how make a date; to arrange/confirm a date and time to meet, plus days of the week and months of the year
p.68	Ch.14 – Your hair looks great!	How to compliment someone's hairstyle; to express criteria for a good hairdresser and how to ask for one, plus useful haircutting sentences
p.70	Ch.15 – Have you been to the doctor?	How to have a conversation about your health; to express common health complaints, and to ask for the location of various practitioners

p.72	Ch.16 – I'm looking for a new place	How to ask about apartments for rent and important questions about apartment features and building amenities
p.74	Ch.17 – Where are the mangos?	How to ask for things in the supermarket; verb + de dào 得到 (able to...) , verb + bú dào 不到 (unable to) ; superlative ( zuì 最 + verb ) p.76	Ch.18 – At the store	How to ask for things in the drugstore; chúle 除了 ...yǐwài 以外 (except for...) ; to specify location (in, on, under, next to, front, back...)
p.78	Ch.19 – What's your family like?	To describe and talk about your family and ask another about theirs; family words; and to use yòu 又 + adjective + yòu 又 + adjective p.80	Ch.20 – In a taxi	How to tell a cab driver where you want to go; simple driving instructions; useful sentences and phrases when taking a cab p.82	Ch.21 – Do you come here often?	How to start a conversation in a bar; how to order popular drinks; to use nánguài 難怪 (no wonder) ; verb + wán 完 = completed action p.84	Ch.22 – This is my boyfriend, Peter.	How to introduce yourself to others; to chat with a friend about what's new at work and home; to use érqiě 而且 (in addition) p.86	Ch.23 – My friend thinks you're Cute!	How to describe people and inquire after them in a social setting; how to use gāngcái 剛才 (just) and cái gāng 才剛 (only just) p.88	Ch.24 – Do you know Taiwan's famous foods?	How to talk about Taiwan's specialty foods and delicacies, and speak of the ones you've eaten; to use gǎn 敢 (dare to) and bùgǎn 不敢 (not dare to) p.90	Ch.25 – Do you like to go to the gym?	How to talk about working out at the gym; talk about how often you do things (once, twice..) over a specific period of time (a day, month, year)
p.92	Ch.26 – I'm so happy!	How to use common emotions to express your feelings; use the yí/yì 一 (once) ...jiù 就 (then) ... construction to talk about a situation
p.94	Ch.27 – Excuse me, where is Taipei 101?	How to ask for directions, to locate landmarks around Taipei, to talk about going places using modes of transportation, and discussing where to meet p.96	Ch.28 – Can you make it a little cheaper?	How to bargain; bargaining and shopping catchphrases; discounts and how to ask for a discounted price, plus how to use juéduì 絕對 (absolutely) p.98	Ch.29 – You look great today!	How to give, deflect, and accept compliments; catchphrases to compliment one's appearance, and how to use yuè 越 + verb1 + yuè 越 + verb2 p.100	Ch.30 – So what do you like to do?	To talk about fun activities; to issue social invitations, and how to make suggestions about things you'd like to do p.102	Ch.31 – Do you want to see a movie?	How to negotiate going to see a movie in the cinema, to express your admiration of movie stars, and to say you like/don't like a genre of movies
p.104	Ch.32 – The weather's lovely today!	About the weather in Taiwan; to describe weather, from scorching hot to freezing cold, and how to use verb1 + lái 來 + verb1 + qù 去 p.106	Ch.33 – I love your bag!	To talk about shopping and shopping venues and about prices; to use colors and accessories in questions, and to ask if they shìhé 適合 (suit) you
p.108	Ch.34 – I have errands to run	To politely refuse an invitation; to talk about common daily errands, and how to use yì zhěng 一整 (total; complete) p.110	Ch.35 – Can you do me a favor?	To relay the request for a favor, in addition to how to ask for various favors for yourself in a polite way
p.112	Ch.36 – Do you like to watch sports?	To talk about watching and playing sports, and to use frequency adverbs ( always, usually, sometimes, occasionally, rarely, never ) in statements

p.114	Ch.37 – The MRT is so convenient!	To apologize for being late; to debate public / personal modes of travel; to say where you live around ( the school, work, the park... ) and how to get there p.116	Ch.38 – What's your sign?	All of the Chinese Zodiac Signs and the superstitions regarding the tiger sign, as well as the Astrological signs; how to guess/ask another's sign p.118	Ch.39 – Happy New Year	To talk about travel plans (vacation destinations, booking airline tickets), ask about local holidays and use fǎnzhèng 反正 (anyhow) in statements
p.120	Ch.40 – I have to do the dishes	To talk to roommates about cleaning schedules and maids, state your opinion on household chores, and to use yàobùrán 要不然 (otherwise) p.122	Ch.41 – Ouch, I hurt my back!	To describe a busy day at kindy, and talk about injuries/accidents, and use the ...bǎ 把 in Subject + Object + Verb statements p.124	Ch.42 – Is there a church around here?	To have a pleasant conversation about places of worship in Taiwan, different religions, and how to use the situation + de huà 的話 construction
p.126	Ch.43 – What a pretty baby you have!	To compliment a cute baby; to sidestep questions about your age/marital status and how to use re-duplicatable adjectives, i.e. zhǒngzhǒng 腫腫 p.128	Ch.44 – What a beautiful house you have!	To compliment a friend's house and talk about his/her décor; how to use búshì 不是 (not) ...zhǐshì 只是 (just) ...éryǐ 而已 (only) p.130	Ch.45 – I've just adopted a dog!	To talk about taking in a street dog in Taiwan; to ask someone the name of their pet, and how to use the passive marker bèi 被 in statements p.132	More Tongue Twisters A collection of well known tongue twisters ranging from moderately difficult to incredibly challenging. Master them and impress all your Taiwanese friends!
p.137	The A to Z of Slang A broad assortment of local slang which amply displays the humor and ingenuity of the Taiwanese p.149	Number Slang Use them when in a hurry or even have whole conversations with combinations of these number codes p.150	Letter Abbreviations Clever abbreviations, ideal for instant messaging or texting. Say a lot with just a few letters!
p.152	Proverbs Sample dialogues for each one of these common proverbs help you get the knack of how to use them
p.162	Pinyin – Chinese Character – English Glossary All the vocabulary words from the VPC Book and Study Guide listed in alphabetical order by Pinyin p.203	English – Chinese Character – Pinyin Glossary All the vocabulary words from the VPC Book and Study Guide listed in alphabetical order by English
p.244	Pinyin to BPMF Conversion Chart For when you're given pronunciation instructions in BPMF; just refer to the table for its Pinyin counterpart
p.249	Endnotes
p.250	References and Resources p.251	Meet the VPC team The author, editors, illustrator, voice actors and other contributors to Very Practical Chinese p.252	Notes Some extra space for your own notes!	